EduCators face HARD DECISIONS

This is another in a series of articles prepared by the University of Tennessee Department of Marketing, Counseling, and Guidance. It is intended to provide information about the educational opportunities available to students at Tennessee State University and to encourage them to consider these options seriously.

Some college students are facing the difficult decision of whether to pursue higher education. This article will discuss some of the issues that need to be considered when making this decision.

There are several reasons why higher education may be a good choice for students. First, it can lead to better job opportunities and higher earnings. Second, it can provide students with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in their careers. Third, it can provide students with a sense of personal fulfillment.

However, there are also some potential drawbacks to attending college. One of the most significant is the cost. College tuition can be very expensive, and many students may need to take out loans to pay for their education.

In order to make an informed decision about whether or not to pursue higher education, students should consider all of the factors involved. They should also talk to their parents, teachers, and counselors to get their opinions and advice.

In conclusion, higher education can be a good choice for students, but it is important to consider all of the factors involved before making a decision. With the right information and support, students can make the right choice for their future.

TVA Chairman Appears on Nat'l TV Series

TVA Board Chairman David Dodson appeared as a panelist on a recent national television show, "The Today Show," which airs on NBC. The show is broadcast from New York City and features a mix of news, interviews, and discussions.

Dodson spoke about the important role that the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) plays in providing electricity to millions of Americans. He also discussed the agency's efforts to ensure the sustainability of its operations.

The show was hosted by Megyn Kelly, who interviewed Dodson and other guests about various topics, including the TVA's role in economic development and the challenges of maintaining a large-scale infrastructure.

In addition to speaking about the TVA, Dodson also addressed other issues, such as climate change and renewable energy. He highlighted the agency's commitment to reducing its carbon footprint and promoting clean energy solutions.

Dodson's appearance on "The Today Show" is part of the TVA's ongoing efforts to raise awareness about its mission and programs. The agency is committed to providing clean, affordable electricity to its customers while also protecting the environment.

The TVA is a federal agency that serves 4 million people in seven states. It was created in 1933 as part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal program.
