LA MONACA DIES IN WASHINGTON

Italian Sculptor Executed Best of Pope Pius XI.

FREDERICK H. RAWSON DEAD

Chicago Barker and Railroad Director Was Philanthropist.

Perplexing La Monaca, Italian sculptor who was in this city in connection with the presentation of his works at the pink marble pedestal, at the Hotel Washington. Washington, D. C., on Thursday afternoon. She was scheduled to deliver a demonstration lecture on Monday evening. La Monaca is the daughter of the late Count Francesco Monaca, who died in 1902 in New York. She is survived by her husband, Filippo Rana, and her son, Count Carlo Monaca. She was born in 1869 in Italy and studied under the famous sculptor, Antonio Canova. She was a member of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Florence and had won many awards for her work. She was also a member of the American Institute of Fine Arts and the National Academy of Design. She was a frequent contributor to the New York Sun and other prominent newspapers. She was known for her portraits of famous people, including Pope Pius XI, and had received a special commission from the Pope to create a bust of him. She was the first woman to receive a gold medal from the American Institute of Fine Arts and was the first woman to be appointed to the National Academy of Design. She died in Rome in 1937, forty-eight years ago. She was forty-eight years old.

James A. O'Shea, of 26 E. 72d St., died yesterday afternoon in his home.

August Oppenheimer, 36-year-old sculptor, was also a sculptor who was well known in this city. He had been living in Washington for the past two years, where he had been working on a series of portraits of the President of Mexico. He was also a member of the American Academy of Fine Arts and had received many awards for his work. He was the father of two children, Henry and Margaret.

James F. A. Mercer, 36-year-old sculptor, was also a member of the American Academy of Fine Arts and had received many awards for his work. He was the father of two children, Henry and Margaret.

Henry A. Sanger, 36-year-old sculptor, was also a member of the American Academy of Fine Arts and had received many awards for his work. He was the father of two children, Henry and Margaret.

Charles G. Griswold, 36-year-old sculptor, was also a member of the American Academy of Fine Arts and had received many awards for his work. He was the father of two children, Henry and Margaret.

Golf Still Attracts Guests at Lakewood

The New York Sun. Saturday, February 6, 1937.